Sales

The 31st Anniversary Sale runs Thursday, December 1 through Sunday, December 11, giving you two weekends to take advantage of the sale. December 1 marks Uncle Edgar's 31st anniversary. Come into Uncle Edgar's or Uncle Hugo's and save 10% off everything except discount cards, gift certificates, or merchandise that is already marked 40% off. (All the jigsaw puzzles and most of the games are already 40% off.) A discount card will save you even more - you'll get both 10% savings from the discount card and 10% off from the sale. (Sale prices apply to in-store purchases, but not to mail, phone, or website orders.)

Our annual Inventory Reduction Sale will be December 26-31, and will feature deep discounts on things we really, really want to get rid of. It will not be a storewide sale like the 31st Anniversary Sale.

Award News

The Hugo Award for Best Novel went to Connie Willis for Blackout/All Clear (each title available as a $26.00 hc or $16.00 tr pb); Best Related Book went to Chicks Dig Time Lords: A Celebration of Doctor Who by the Women Who Love It edited by Lynne M. Thomas and Tara O'Shea ($14.95).

Many mystery awards were announced at Bouchercon:

The Anthony Awards included Best Novel to Bury Your Dead by Louise Penny ($24.99 signed hc or $14.99 tr pb), Best First Mystery to The Damage Done by Hilary Davidson ($24.99, $7.99 pb due in January), and Best Paperback Original to Expiration Date by Duane Swierczynski ($13.99).

The Barry Awards included Best Novel to The Lock Artist by Steve Hamilton ($14.99 tr pb), Best First Novel to The Poacher's Son by Paul Doiron ($14.99), Best British Crime Novel to The Woodcutter by Reginald Hill ($25.99), Best Thriller to Thirteen Hours by Deon Meyer ($7.99), and Best Paperback Original to Fever of the Bone by Val McDermid ($14.99).

The Shamus Awards included Best P.I. Novel to No Mercy by Lori Armstrong ($7.99), Best Paperback Original to Asia Hand by Christopher C. Moore ($14.00), Best First P.I. Novel to In Search of Mercy by Michael Ayoub ($24.99 signed hc), plus The Eye Award (for lifetime achievement) to Ed Gorman and The Hammer Award (for best PI character) for V. I. Warshawski by Sara Paretsky.

The Macavity Awards included Best Mystery Novel to Bury Your Dead by Louise Penny ($24.99 signed hc or $14.99 tr pb), Best First Mystery Novel to Rogue Island by Bruce DeSilva ($14.99), Best Mystery-Related Nonfiction to Agatha Christie's Secret Notebooks: 50 Years of Mysteries in the Making edited by John Curran ($16.99). The Sue Feder Historical Mystery Award went to City of Dragons by Kelli Stanley ($14.99).

Holiday Gift Ideas

Our single most popular gift option continues to be our gift certificate. We can issue one for any amount. It can be used at either or both Uncles. It can even be used for mail orders, and it can be purchased over the phone (if you have a Visa, Mastercard, or Discover Card) and we can mail it either to the purchaser or to the recipient, or we can just enter the balance on a credit file here at the store to avoid the risk of the gift certificate being lost.

Calendars are another popular gift item. There were fewer calendars that we were interested in ordering this year, and many of the calendars we ordered did not get produced. Almost all calendars for the U.S. are printed in the Far East, with the ordering beginning in February, and the final decision is made in the Spring on which titles to actually produce and how many of each title, so that the finished products can come on a "slow boat from China" for distribution late Summer. Boris Vallejo & Julie Bell's Fantasy ($12.99), Dragons ($13.99, art by Ciruelo), The Gashlycrumb Tinies ($13.99, Edward Gorey).

The standard wall calendars include The Avengers ($13.95, the TV show), Boris Vallejo & Julie Bell's Fantasy ($12.99), Dragons ($13.99, art by Ciruelo), The Gashlycrumb Tinies ($13.99, Edward Gorey), George R. R. Martin: A Song of Ice and Fire ($17.00, art by John Picacio), Hammer Glamour ($13.95, women from Hammer Films), I Improved My Rate of Doing Nothing ($13.99, Dilbert), Luis Royo ($13.95, art from Heavy Metal), M.C. Escher: Inside Out ($13.99), The Princess Bride ($13.99, 25th anniversary of the movie), The Simpsons ($13.99), Star Trek Ships of the Line ($14.99), and Tolkien ($14.99, art by Cor Blok). The only page-per-day style calendars we've received are I Can Has Cheezburger? ($13.99 humorous photos of cats with captions), The Next Thing You Hear Is Something Called Leadership ($13.99, Dilbert), and The Simpsons ($13.99). The only desk calendar we've received is The Book of Fictional Days: A Collection of Events that Did Not Really Happen: Mainly Mystery Edition ($10.00, locally produced in black and white, each day has a reference to an event that happened on that day in a work of fiction, usually a mystery novel).

Another very popular gift idea is signed books. We don't have space in this newsletter to list all the signed titles, so go to our website, click Browse Our New Books, scroll about half-way down the next (long) page and click Signed Books (for either Edgar's or Hugo's or All).

How's Business by Don Blyly

We're still hanging on, but sales have not gone up after the collapse of Borders, as we had hoped would happen. We've had an unusually large number of people come in this week, wonder around the store going "Wow!", and then on the way out the door without buying anything comment, "I'm sure glad you're still in business. What an amazing bookstore!"

Let me explain some of the expenses we have to cover in order to stay in business. I own the building and it's been paid off for several years, or else the cost of rent would have driven us out of business years ago. Just before the economy crashed, I heard what other area landlords were getting in rent and realized that I could have rented the building and made twice the income as I was making from working 70 hours per week. Most days I'm able to convince myself that being a bookseller is more fun than being a landlord, so I wasn't tempted to try to rent out the space. But my expenses include property tax (currently comes to almost $1800 month, more than double what it was 6 years ago), utilities (averages about $1000 per month, with the cost being lower in the spring and fall, higher in the summer, and much higher in the winter), insurance (averages about $1000 per month for all the different kinds I have to carry), bank charges (averages about $1000 per month, mainly for credit card processing), maintenance and repairs (including over $10,000 for a new air conditioner/furnace a couple of months ago), publishing the Newsletter (about $22,000 per year just for printing and postage), plus payroll and inventory. I think we'll have to increase the minimum price on used books soon, but I'll try to give advance warning so that people will have a chance to stock up before the price goes up.

About a week ago I read that one of the major publishers had a drop in sales of print books because of Borders going under, but because of people switching to e-books their total sales were up 1%; because the e-books are so much more profitable than printed books for the publisher, they still made 19% more profit than the same period the year before. Today I read that this company was cutting 10 people from the printed book sales force and adding 10 people to promote e-book sales. Another of the major paperback publishers has started a line of books to be issued only in e-book format but at mass market paperback prices, starting with romance reprints but with plans to expand this sales strategy to other genres. Another of the major publishers has told many of their authors that their books will no longer be reprinted in mass market paperback—the books will be published in hardcover, e-books, and then perhaps be reprinted in trade paperback, but will never be reprinted as mass market paperbacks. A few months ago I was hearing that the publishers were very concerned about helping the brick-and-mortar stores survive as "show rooms" for their books, but it now looks like many of the publishers have decided to instead try to push readers into buying e-books instead of printed books. After all, the profit margins for the publishers is much higher from e-books than from printed books, the channels of distribution are much simpler (a few giant corporations instead of thousands of independent bookstores), there's no problem with warehousing printed books, and no need to remainder books that were printed in numbers far exceeding demand.

All of the major publishers offer the signed copies of their books at the same price as the unsigned copies of the same book unless they do something to make the signed copy more special than just being signed (like a slipcase or an extra short story). One publisher is planning to try next summer to charge an extra $8.00 for signed copies of several books that are the same as the regular copies except for the signatures. I've spent a lot of time trying to convince them that this is a very BAD idea that will result in drastically reduced sales and lots of anger towards the publisher. Of course, some readers would also get angry with the bookstores and with the authors over this, when we have no control over such pricing decisions, and the authors didn't even know about the pricing plan for their signed books.

Short Recommendations by Don Blyly

I've enjoyed all of Larry Correia's books, which tend to be full of action and humor. I didn't know what to expect of Dead Six ($7.99), co-written by Larry Correia and Mike Kupari. It's labeled "Military Fiction" on the spine, and it's the first novel that either author has co-written. It's set in the near future, after the drug wars in Mexico caused the U.N. to send in peacekeeping forces and after a civil war breaks out in China between hard-core communists in the north and hard-core capitalists of the south. The story is told from the point of view of two characters. Michael Valentine, a veteran and former member of an elite private military company, is hired for what appears to be a top secret U.S. government black ops mission (named Dead Six) targeting terrorists in the small Persian Gulf state of Zubara. When he's hired for the mission, somebody jokes that if you die, you don't get paid the very high salary that is being offered. As the mission progresses, he notices that the dangerous assignments seem to be planned to kill off team members as well as terrorists. Lorenzo is an assassin and thief extraordinaire, who used to prey on law-abiding victims, but now feels much better preying on gun runners, terrorists, and other people who won't run to the police after being robbed. Lorenzo and his team are being blackmailed by a deadly international criminal to infiltrate the terrorist organization in Zubara and pull off an impossible heist or else their family members will be killed. At first, Michael and Lorenzo are unaware of each other, but as each team performs their missions, they keep screwing up the plans of the other team. The book is full of action and has some humor. The co-writing worked well. Although most of the loose ends are wrapped up by the end of the book, a sequel is planned, and I look forward to reading it.

Cold Magic by Kate Elliot ($7.99) is the first of a trilogy, and is an alternate history fantasy that throws in almost everything but the kitchen sink, but still manages to work very well. The Romans failed to defeat Carthage, leaving the Phoenicians in control of the seas and a weaker Roman Empire on land. About 1000 years before the story begins (in the 1800's, dated from Augustus coming to power in Rome), the Roman Empire pretty much collapsed, but not before having a heavy impact on the cultures of western Europe. About 400 years before the story begins, the Persians conquered Northern Africa, causing many of the Phoenicians to flee to Europe and form alliances with the Celtic princes. About 100 years later, an outbreak of ghouls south of the Sahara destroyed the west African empire of Mali, with many of the Mali elite hiring Phoenician ships to take them, their gold, and their magic to Europe, where they marry into the families of the Celtic princes. Some of the Mali hired Phoenicians to take them to South America and eventually to North America, where they met the "trolls", intelligent descendants of the dinosaurs who are slightly more technologically advanced than the humans and very interested in trade with the humans (or "rats" as they like to call the humans). And then there is the new Ice Age, which has lowered the sea level enough to connect England to France. And the cold mages are the most powerful of several different kinds of magic users. Throw in people (and others) passing back and forth between our world and the spirit world, plus the Wild Hunt, plus too many other things to mention, and you have a very interesting background for the story. Catherine ("Cat") is an orphan approaching her 20th birthday, living with a Phoenician family of modest means that she believes to be her aunt and uncle and various cousins, including Beatrice, who is a couple of months younger and her best friend. When Cat is suddenly forced against her will to marry a cold mage, she starts to learn that much of what she thought she knew is wrong. There's a little too much breathless romance thrown into the story for my taste, but not enough to keep me from enjoying the book very much. The second of the trilogy, Cold Fire ($14.99), came out in September, but I haven't had a chance to read it yet. The concluding volume will probably be out next fall.

Snuff by Terry Pratchett ($25.99) is officially Discworld novel #33, but it's actually around the 40th if you include the young adult ones, and it is very good. Sam Vimes, the commander of the Ankh-Morpork City Watch, is forced by his wife and Lord Vetinari to take a vacation in the country. He starts out very unhappy about being on vacation, but he finds crime (including murder) in the country and is soon happily back at work chasing down criminals while on vacation, uttering pithy remarks about law, order, chaos, how coppers should behave, and his opinions of various items of food as he goes along. But what does "happy as a cat full of sixpences" really mean?

After Connie Willis won both the Nebula and the Hugo Awards for best novel of the year, I picked up one of her older novels, Passage ($7.99, 2001). It is correctly labeled "Fiction" rather than "Science Fiction". At a Colorado hospital there are 3 people researching near-death experiences. Maurice Mandrake is a best-selling author who doesn't care about science, and tries to get patients to tell him what he wants to hear for his next best-selling book on near-death experiences. Almost everybody in the hospital detests him, but he donated so much money from his previous best-seller that he can get away with almost anything. Dr. Joanna Lander is a psychologist doing serious scientific research into near-death experiences, and Dr. Richard Wright is a neurologist who has just begun a study trying to duplicate near-death experiences using psychoactive drugs. Joanna starts helping Richard with his research project, and eventually allows herself to be a research subject in his study because of problems with his other research subjects. The book is full of interesting characters (especially Maisie, a very bright young girl with a serious heart condition and a mother in complete denial about how serious Maisie's condition really is) and interesting side-stories. The pacing is slower than most of the books I normally read because of all the subplots, but it was well worth reading.

Mystery Reviews by Gerri Balter

The Damage Done by Hilary Davidson ($24.99, $7.99 pb due in January, winner of 2011 Anthony Award for Best 1st Novel) starts when Lily Moore comes back to New York to identify the body of her sister. Lily is sure her sister died of a drug overdose. When she sees the body, she realizes it isn't her sister. So who is the dead woman and what happened to her sister? That's what Lily is determined to find out. She finds out more than she wishes to know. Her former boyfriend seems to have had a relationship with her sister even when they were together. Then there's her sister's former boyfriend who will do anything to find her. Lily's life is put in danger by what she finds out, but that won't stop her. She will find the truth because she loves her sister in spite of their differences.

The Sherlockian by Graham Moore ($24.99 hc, $14.99 tr pb due in January) tells two stories. One has to do with what might have happened to Dr. Arthur Conan Doyle between the time he killed Sherlock Holmes and brought him back and the other has to do with the search for a missing diary of Dr. Arthur Conan Doyle and who killed the man who said he found it. The novel is a mixture of fact and fiction with fascinating characters including Bram Stoker, two intricate plots intertwined, and a fascinating picture of what life was like at the end of the nineteenth and beginning of the twentieth century. Normally I don't read Author's Notes nor do I recommend people read them. This time, I strongly suggest you read it. After reading this novel, I'm adding a trip to Switzerland to visit the Sherlock Holmes museum to my bucket list.

Bury Your Dead by Louise Penny ($24.99 signed hc or $14.99 tr pb) is the one thing Chief Inspector Gamache and Jean-Guy Beauvoir can't do. Gamache is blaming himself for the deaths of people in his command. He believes his mistakes caused their deaths. He leaves his home and goes to Quebec City to get away from his nightmares. Unfortunately, his nightmares follow him. Then he becomes involved in the investigation of a murder in the only English language library in Quebec City. It is a way for him to forget his pain. Meanwhile Jean-Guy Beauvoir is sent to Three Pines while he is recovering from his wounds. Gamache sends him there because he isn't sure the right man went to prison for the murder of a hermit. While both men try to solve their cases, the reader learns what happened that causes Gamache and Jean-Guy so much pain.

I admit that I felt a bond with Georgiana Neverall in Lead-Pipe Cinch by Christy Evans ($6.99) not because of her job as a plumber's apprentice. I know nothing about plumbing. But because she wants to keep her past private. She used to be a hot shot computer expert. She even had her own company. Then she met Blake Weston. She dated him. She made him a partner. Then he took the company away from her and left her with nothing. She comes home to make a fresh start in a new career. Then she meets Blake on the job she is working on. When he's murdered, she is the prime suspect. Her friends want to help, but she doesn't want to admit she was a fool. She's determined to find out the truth on her own which means lying to the police and her friends, and putting herself in a situation which might mean the end of her life.

Abby Knight is like most people. When she has a cause that she believes in, she will do whatever it takes. In Sleeping with Anemone by Kate Collins ($6.99), that means putting her life in danger. She doesn't realize that's what's going to happen when she tries to stop Uniworld Foods from putting a dairy farm nearby. She wants to stop them from their harmful farming practices. Even when she begins to receive threats, she thinks it's a ploy to stop her. Then her cousin is kidnapped by someone who thinks she's Abby. Her flower shop is trashed. Her niece is kidnapped by someone who thinks she's Abby. Even when Abby backs down, the threats keep coming. Someone steals the brooches her mother makes to sell at her flower shop. Abby feels that she has to find out the truth so she can get on with her life. What she doesn't realize is that the person who is after her won't stop until she is dead.

Borderline by Nevada Barr ($9.99) refers to the border between Texas and Mexico in Big Bend National Park through which the Rip Grande flows. At one time no one patrolled that border and it was opened. Then 9/11 happened and the border was closed and it was patrolled. Anna Pigeon and her husband, Paul, go there on a raft trip with a group of people. It's more than a vacation. Anna is recovering from what happened to her on Isle Royale. She has just started to relax when things began to happen. They come across a cow that is trapped. Anna, who has taken one life, feels that she must rescue this one. While they try to rescue the trapped animal, a storm comes up and the high water causes their raft to overturn. As they swim to shore, one of the other people on the raft finds a woman who is very pregnant and close to death. The woman dies but Anna does a C-section and saves the baby, a girl. When they try to find a way out, someone starts shooting at them. The killer kills two of the group before they are rescued. While Anna and her husband are recovering from their ordeal, someone tries to kidnap the baby girl they are caring for. Anna is determined to protect the baby girl until the proper authorities come for her. The others believe that the woman was a Mexican who tried to cross the border so that the baby would be born American. Anna isn't so sure. From what she saw, the woman looked as if she had money and wouldn't have needed to cross the border. By the time Anna learns the truth, the killer has captured both her and the baby. She will do what is needed to save the baby and keep herself from being killed.

Faithful Place ($16.00) by Tana French is a neighborhood in Dublin Ireland where there isn't much faith. The story begins in 1985 when nineteen- year-old Francis Mackey is ready to leave Faithful Place with the girl he loves, Rose Daly. When she doesn't meet him, he leaves his dysfunctional family and becomes an undercover cop. He never plans to go back to them. Then his sister, Jackie, one of the few family members he is still in contact with, calls to tell him that Rose's suitcase was found during remodeling of one of the apartments. He always thought she ran off without him. He forces himself to go back and examines the suitcase's contents. It tells him she didn't run off. With that evidence, he finds her remains. He finds that he still cares for her and feels compelled to find her killer even though the detective in charge warns him off. Then his youngest brother falls out of a window and dies. The detective in charge believes it is either an accident or suicide. Francis knows he's been murdered, by the same person who killed Rose. He believes he knows who the killer is, even though he has no proof, and plans his own form of revenge. His nine-year-old daughter has her own plans for she thinks she knows who the killer is too. Now he has to confront the killer before the killer does something drastic to his child.

Damage Control by J.A. Jance ($9.99) is well named. Joanna Brady, Cochise County Sheriff, has a lot to balance on her plate. Her new baby is keeping her and her husband up at night. Her husband has a chance to go out and promote his new book. In order for him to do that, they have to find someone to care for the baby while she is at work. On top of that, she has several cases to investigate. An old couple drives off a cliff on purpose or maybe not. A fire was set destroying a trailer and killing some of the inhabitants. Two trash bags filled with human remains were found. Some of the cases are related. It's up to Joanne and her team to solve them.

Face Time by Hank Phillippi Ryan ($7.99) about families. Charlotte "Charlie" McNally is juggling her career as a TV reporter, visiting her mom who is recovering from surgery, and trying to figure out how to relate to her boyfriend's daughter, who isn't happy about sharing her father with someone who isn't her mother. Then there's the story she's working on, trying to find evidence to free Dorinda Sweeney from prison. She's been convicted of murdering her husband. The problem is that Dorinda doesn't want Charlie's help. She refuses to talk to her. Normally that would be enough to stop Charlie. Not this time. Her boss wants this story to run during sweeps and Charlie's producer promised it would be ready. Charlie wants to convince Dorinda to talk to her. Someone keeps trying to stop her, which only makes her more determined. Then she realizes why Dorinda doesn't want her to be involved. It has to do with family. Charlie has to make some serious decisions that might cost her everything.

They were to turn over to Matthew a document so damning that it would disgrace England and destroy the civilized world. Now it has vanished. How had it fallen into the hands of their father, a quiet countryman? Then Joseph's most gifted student is murdered. England's peace is cracking, as the distance between the assassination of an Austrian archduke and the murder of a brilliant university student grows shorter by the day)
- Perry, Anne The Cater Street Hangman $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #01: Reissue; While the Ellison girls were out paying calls like proper Victorian ladies, a maid in their household was strangled to death.

Quiet young Inspector Pitt investigates, and finds no one above suspicion. As his questioning causes many a composed facade to crumble, Pitt finds himself drawn to Charlotte Ellison. But surely a romance between a society girl and so unsuitable a suitor is impossible, especially in the midst of a murder inquiry)

Perry, Anne

Resurrection Row $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #04: Reissue; Inspector Pitt is amazed at the sight: the corpse of a peer of the realm, sitting at the reins of a hansom cab. Who would want to exhume a decently buried chap like Lord Augustus Fitzroy-Hammond? A doctor insists that the old man's death was natural, but there's certainly nothing natural about this gristly aftermath)

Perry, Anne

Bluegate Fields $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #06: Reissue; A boy has been found in the filthy sewers of one of Victorian London's most dangerous slums, violated and then murdered. When the boy's upper class family refuses to answer questions, Inspector Pitt wonders what secrets they hiding; his wife Charlotte is determined to find out)

Perry, Anne

Cardington Crescent $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #08: Reissue; When womanizing aristocrat George March is found dead over his morning coffee, his family decides to deal with the scandal as discreetly and quickly as possible: they accuse March's wife Emily of the murder. Emily's sister Charlotte and her husband, Inspector Thomas Pitt, take on the seemingly irreproachable March clan, and uncover a web of corruption and depravity that leads from the elegant town house to the slums of Victorian London - and to yet another murder)

Perry, Anne

Silence in Hanover Close $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #09: Reissue; Asked to conduct a discreet investigation into the unsolved murder of a diplomat, Inspector Thomas Pitt is all too aware that his superiors simply want things smoothed over. It's up to Pitt's wellborn wife Charlotte and her sister Emily to garner information from the man's high society family. Privy to conversations that would never reach the ears of a policeman, they find a secret so shocking it will lead to more deaths - including, quite possibly, Pitt's own)

Perry, Anne

Bethlehem Road $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #10: Reissue; Sir Lockwood Hamilton, the kindest of family men and most conscientious member of Parliament, is elegantly attired, tied to the lamppost on Westminster Bridge, and quite dead, his throat cut. Before Inspector Thomas Pitt can even speculate on the reasons, a colleague of Sir Lockwood's meets the same fate in the same spot. Charlotte Pitt scouts society's drawing rooms for clues to these appalling crimes)

Perry, Anne

Highgate Rise $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #11: Reissue; Arson results in a woman's death in a quiet London suburb. But was she the intended victim, or was her husband? Or did he set the blaze himself to inherit her fortune? With clues scarce, Inspector Thomas Pitt turns to the woman's distinguished relatives, hoping for answers. Meanwhile, Charlotte retraces the dangerous path the woman walked in the last months of her life, and finds a sinister web that stretches from the lowest slums to the loftiest centers of power)

Perry, Anne

The Hyde Park Headsman $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #14: Reissue; Gruesome beheadings in Hyde Park have London in a state of terror, and if newly promoted Police Superintendent Thomas Pitt can't apprehend the perpetrator quickly, he may find himself out of a job)

Perry, Anne

Pentecost Alley $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #16: Reissue; When evidence appears to implicate a young diplomat in a prostitute's murder, the young man's immensely powerful father makes it clear that Superintendent Thomas Pitt is to arrest someone else for the murder. But Pitt stubbornly pursues an investigation full of twists and turns. Is the young man guilty, or is he being framed?)

Perry, Anne

Ashworth Hall $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #17: Reissue; A meeting is arranged between Protestant and Catholic factions to discuss Irish Home Rule, but the negotiations seem doomed after the government official moderating the meeting is murdered. Unless Superintendent Thomas Pitt and his wife Charlotte can root out the truth, Ireland may collapse into civil war)

Perry, Anne

Brunswick Gardens $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #18: Reissue; The battle over Charles Darwin's theory of evolution intensifies when the respected Reverend Parmenter is boldly challenged by his assistant Unity Bellwood, a woman whose feminism and aggressive Darwinism he finds appalling. When Unity, three months pregnant, tumbles to her death, Superintendent Thomas Pitt is certain that one of the three deeply devout men in the house committed murder. Could it have been the Reverend Parmenter? His handsome curate? Or his son, a fervent Roman Catholic?)

Perry, Anne

Bedford Square $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #19: Reissue; Although General Balantyne denies all knowledge of the shabbily dressed victim who has been murdered on his doorstep, Superintendent Thomas Pitt finds a rare snuffbox, last seen in the general's study, in the dead man's pocket. The superintendent must tread lightly, however, lest his investigation trigger a tragedy)

Perry, Anne

Seven Dials $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #23: Reissue; Thomas Pitt of Her Majesty's Special Branch is summoned to a mansion, where the body of a junior diplomat lies huddled in a wheelbarrow. Nearby stands the tenant of the house, a beautiful Egyptian woman, now prime suspect in the murder. Pitt's orders are to protect at all costs the good name of the third person in the garden: a senior cabinet minister, rumored to be the woman's lover, who insists she is innocent. Pitt's search for the truth takes him from Egyptian cotton fields to a London slum, and ultimately to a packed London courtroom)

Perry, Anne Long Spoon Lane $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #24: Reissue; After an anarchist attack, two of the culprits are captured and the leader is shot . . . but by whom? As Thomas Pitt of the Special Branch delves into the case, clues suggest that the mastermind was Inspector Wetron, the shadowy leader of the Inner Circle, who is using his influence with the press to stir up fear, and to rush a bill through Parliament that would severely curtail civil liberties. To defeat Wetron, Pitt must ally with his old enemy Sir Charles Voisey)

Perry, Anne Buckingham Palace Gardens $15.00 (Thomas Pitt #25: Reissue; When a female guest turns up dead following the Prince of Wales' party, Thomas Pitt's discreet investigation is complicated by Victorian politics, hidden rivalries, and high-stakes financial rewards)

Perry, Anne The Face of a Stranger $15.00 (William Monk #01: Reissue; His name, they tell him, is William Monk, and he is a London police detective. But the accident that felled him has left him without his memory; his entire past has vanished.
